

I CLAIM:

1. A conducting structure of a multi-layers IC board including a 5 conducting wire and a conducting rod being received in each aperture of the IC board, wherein the rod is conducted with each layer of the IC board, and the conducting wire being placed on the board to have its ending pin and annular metal ring contact with two neighborhood apertures and be welded together for effective conduction.

10